

McK&R CALOX
THE OXYGEN
TOOTH POWDER

You quickly notice the excellence of CALOX because the Oxygen removes discolorations and whitens the teeth, keeping them sound and healthy. Buy CALOX and improve your teeth! At all dealers.

25 and 50 cents
Year 32 Teeth are 32 Reasons!

ABOLISH COLD CREAM should be used regularly to cleanse and soften the skin. This preparation is of remarkable purity and is of great value to use. In 25c tins and 50c and 100c tins.

McKesson & Robbins, New York
Incorporated

A Sensitive Society Subject.

Toilet and hygienic cleanliness is a subject of much interest to the modern, social and laity world. It deserves all the attention it is receiving, as it is a great deal more than a matter of mere cleanliness. It is a matter of health, of comfort and of the human race. The way to obtain and retain it is, of course, to keep clean and to do this from a toilet and hygienic standpoint there is nothing more suitable than Tyre's Antiseptic Powder. The nature of the composition of this article makes it an almost indispensable adjunct to the toilet of every careful woman and man who appreciates the value and comfort of hygienic cleanliness. Tyre's Antiseptic Powder has a large and growing number of friends in the scientific, social and laity world. In solution when used for disease of the mucous membrane and for prickly heat, skin rash, tender feet, offensive perspiration, etc., and in many other ways peculiar to women's requirements, it is unequalled.

Tyre's Powder does not stain, possesses no odor and its use is accompanied by a most delightful sensation. Being inexpensive, its employment is not opposed by patients of moderate means. It is sold in original packages only at 25c, 50c and $1 each by all druggists, or the manufacturer.

J. S. TYRE, Chemist, Inc.,
Washington, D. C.

JOHN W. KERN DIES; EX-U. S. SENATOR

Succumbs to Uraemic Poisoning While Recuperating at Asheville, N. C.

SIXTY-SEVEN YEARS OF AGE

JOHN W. KERN.
ASHEVILLE, N. C., August 18.—John W. Kern, former United States senator from Indiana and majority leader in the Senate, died here last night, death being due to uraemic poisoning. The deceased was sixty-seven years old.

Mr. Kern came from Washington to a local sanatorium a week ago to rest and recuperate. Until Tuesday morning he exhibited no symptoms of the disease which caused his death. With Mr. Kern at the time of his death were Mrs. Kern and Miss George B. Lawson, a daughter of Roanoke, Va. Mr. Kern was sent early today to Hollins Va., the late senator's summer home, where burial will take place. Funeral arrangements had not been completed today when those in charge of the body left here.

Famous Criminal Lawyer.
Ex-Senator Kern was born at Alto, Ind., December 20, 1849. While he was still young his parents moved to Warren county, Iowa. When they lived on a farm. He attended school in Iowa until he was fourteen years of age, when he came to the University of Michigan in 1867. He studied law and graduated in 1869. He began practicing in Kokomo when he was but twenty years of age. His reputation grew rapidly and he was known as one of the ablest criminal lawyers in Indiana. At one time he was city attorney of Kokomo and ran for several other local offices on the democratic ticket.

Once Attorney for Indianapolis. In 1862 he was elected reporter of the supreme court of Indiana and served four years. He was city attorney of Indianapolis during the administration of Thomas Taggart as mayor.

He ran for the office of Governor of Indiana on the democratic ticket in 1900 and 1904, being defeated each time. He was running mate of William Jennings Bryan for Vice President of the United States in 1908, and was defeated. Opposing the late Senator Benjamin Shively, he was a candidate for United States senator before the legislature of Indiana in 1909. In 1910 the democratic state convention indicated against his wishes that he was its choice for United States senator, and the legislature of 1911, which was democratic, elected him to that position. He was candidate for election in the first popular election last fall and was defeated by Senator Harry S. New.

Close Friend of Bryan. On entering the Senate Mr. Kern immediately sprang into the light because of his friendship with Mr. Bryan, and after the democrats gained control of the Senate he was named as the democratic leader. He was a close friend of the Wilson administration and took a prominent part in the leadership of his party in the Senate on all the important matters of legislation which came up with the incoming administration.

Senator Kern was diplomatic in manner and often had difficult and delicate tasks to perform in smoothing out factional differences between the democrats over the administration program as well as combating opposition by the republicans.

Homely Wit and Genial Nature. He never posed as a brilliant orator, but rather directed his efforts in leadership to confounding his opponents. His homely wit and genial nature endeared him to his colleagues in both parties. He maintained his deep interest in Indiana politics and took a prominent part in the presidential campaign last year. At this time a year ago he and his colleague, Senator Taggart, were stumping Indiana in what proved to be a vain effort to save that state to the democrats. Senator Kern labored day and night and at the close of the campaigning found himself very much impaired in health. He and Kern was married twice. His present wife is the daughter of Dr. William Cooper, a pioneer physician of Kokomo.

been completed today when those in charge of the body left here.

Famous Criminal Lawyer.

Ex-Senator Kern was born at Alto, Ind., December 20, 1849. While he was still young his parents moved to Warren county, Iowa. When they lived on a farm. He attended school in Iowa until he was fourteen years of age, when he came to the University of Michigan in 1867. He studied law and graduated in 1869. He began practicing in Kokomo when he was but twenty years of age. His reputation grew rapidly and he was known as one of the ablest criminal lawyers in Indiana. At one time he was city attorney of Kokomo and ran for several other local offices on the democratic ticket.

Once Attorney for Indianapolis. In 1862 he was elected reporter of the supreme court of Indiana and served four years. He was city attorney of Indianapolis during the administration of Thomas Taggart as mayor.

He ran for the office of Governor of Indiana on the democratic ticket in 1900 and 1904, being defeated each time. He was running mate of William Jennings Bryan for Vice President of the United States in 1908, and was defeated. Opposing the late Senator Benjamin Shively, he was a candidate for United States senator before the legislature of Indiana in 1909. In 1910 the democratic state convention indicated against his wishes that he was its choice for United States senator, and the legislature of 1911, which was democratic, elected him to that position. He was candidate for election in the first popular election last fall and was defeated by Senator Harry S. New.

Close Friend of Bryan. On entering the Senate Mr. Kern immediately sprang into the light because of his friendship with Mr. Bryan, and after the democrats gained control of the Senate he was named as the democratic leader. He was a close friend of the Wilson administration and took a prominent part in the leadership of his party in the Senate on all the important matters of legislation which came up with the incoming administration.

Senator Kern was diplomatic in manner and often had difficult and delicate tasks to perform in smoothing out factional differences between the democrats over the administration program as well as combating opposition by the republicans.

Homely Wit and Genial Nature. He never posed as a brilliant orator, but rather directed his efforts in leadership to confounding his opponents. His homely wit and genial nature endeared him to his colleagues in both parties. He maintained his deep interest in Indiana politics and took a prominent part in the presidential campaign last year. At this time a year ago he and his colleague, Senator Taggart, were stumping Indiana in what proved to be a vain effort to save that state to the democrats. Senator Kern labored day and night and at the close of the campaigning found himself very much impaired in health. He and Kern was married twice. His present wife is the daughter of Dr. William Cooper, a pioneer physician of Kokomo.

He never posed as a brilliant orator, but rather directed his efforts in leadership to confounding his opponents. His homely wit and genial nature endeared him to his colleagues in both parties. He maintained his deep interest in Indiana politics and took a prominent part in the presidential campaign last year. At this time a year ago he and his colleague, Senator Taggart, were stumping Indiana in what proved to be a vain effort to save that state to the democrats. Senator Kern labored day and night and at the close of the campaigning found himself very much impaired in health. He and Kern was married twice. His present wife is the daughter of Dr. William Cooper, a pioneer physician of Kokomo.

He never posed as a brilliant orator, but rather directed his efforts in leadership to confounding his opponents. His homely wit and genial nature endeared him to his colleagues in both parties. He maintained his deep interest in Indiana politics and took a prominent part in the presidential campaign last year. At this time a year ago he and his colleague, Senator Taggart, were stumping Indiana in what proved to be a vain effort to save that state to the democrats. Senator Kern labored day and night and at the close of the campaigning found himself very much impaired in health. He and Kern was married twice. His present wife is the daughter of Dr. William Cooper, a pioneer physician of Kokomo.

He never posed as a brilliant orator, but rather directed his efforts in leadership to confounding his opponents. His homely wit and genial nature endeared him to his colleagues in both parties. He maintained his deep interest in Indiana politics and took a prominent part in the presidential campaign last year. At this time a year ago he and his colleague, Senator Taggart, were stumping Indiana in what proved to be a vain effort to save that state to the democrats. Senator Kern labored day and night and at the close of the campaigning found himself very much impaired in health. He and Kern was married twice. His present wife is the daughter of Dr. William Cooper, a pioneer physician of Kokomo.

He never posed as a brilliant orator, but rather directed his efforts in leadership to confounding his opponents. His homely wit and genial nature endeared him to his colleagues in both parties. He maintained his deep interest in Indiana politics and took a prominent part in the presidential campaign last year. At this time a year ago he and his colleague, Senator Taggart, were stumping Indiana in what proved to be a vain effort to save that state to the democrats. Senator Kern labored day and night and at the close of the campaigning found himself very much impaired in health. He and Kern was married twice. His present wife is the daughter of Dr. William Cooper, a pioneer physician of Kokomo.

He never posed as a brilliant orator, but rather directed his efforts in leadership to confounding his opponents. His homely wit and genial nature endeared him to his colleagues in both parties. He maintained his deep interest in Indiana politics and took a prominent part in the presidential campaign last year. At this time a year ago he and his colleague, Senator Taggart, were stumping Indiana in what proved to be a vain effort to save that state to the democrats. Senator Kern labored day and night and at the close of the campaigning found himself very much impaired in health. He and Kern was married twice. His present wife is the daughter of Dr. William Cooper, a pioneer physician of Kokomo.

He never posed as a brilliant orator, but rather directed his efforts in leadership to confounding his opponents. His homely wit and genial nature endeared him to his colleagues in both parties. He maintained his deep interest in Indiana politics and took a prominent part in the presidential campaign last year. At this time a year ago he and his colleague, Senator Taggart, were stumping Indiana in what proved to be a vain effort to save that state to the democrats. Senator Kern labored day and night and at the close of the campaigning found himself very much impaired in health. He and Kern was married twice. His present wife is the daughter of Dr. William Cooper, a pioneer physician of Kokomo.

He never posed as a brilliant orator, but rather directed his efforts in leadership to confounding his opponents. His homely wit and genial nature endeared him to his colleagues in both parties. He maintained his deep interest in Indiana politics and took a prominent part in the presidential campaign last year. At this time a year ago he and his colleague, Senator Taggart, were stumping Indiana in what proved to be a vain effort to save that state to the democrats. Senator Kern labored day and night and at the close of the campaigning found himself very much impaired in health. He and Kern was married twice. His present wife is the daughter of Dr. William Cooper, a pioneer physician of Kokomo.

He never posed as a brilliant orator, but rather directed his efforts in leadership to confounding his opponents. His homely wit and genial nature endeared him to his colleagues in both parties. He maintained his deep interest in Indiana politics and took a prominent part in the presidential campaign last year. At this time a year ago he and his colleague, Senator Taggart, were stumping Indiana in what proved to be a vain effort to save that state to the democrats. Senator Kern labored day and night and at the close of the campaigning found himself very much impaired in health. He and Kern was married twice. His present wife is the daughter of Dr. William Cooper, a pioneer physician of Kokomo.

He never posed as a brilliant orator, but rather directed his efforts in leadership to confounding his opponents. His homely wit and genial nature endeared him to his colleagues in both parties. He maintained his deep interest in Indiana politics and took a prominent part in the presidential campaign last year. At this time a year ago he and his colleague, Senator Taggart, were stumping Indiana in what proved to be a vain effort to save that state to the democrats. Senator Kern labored day and night and at the close of the campaigning found himself very much impaired in health. He and Kern was married twice. His present wife is the daughter of Dr. William Cooper, a pioneer physician of Kokomo.

He never posed as a brilliant orator, but rather directed his efforts in leadership to confounding his opponents. His homely wit and genial nature endeared him to his colleagues in both parties. He maintained his deep interest in Indiana politics and took a prominent part in the presidential campaign last year. At this time a year ago he and his colleague, Senator Taggart, were stumping Indiana in what proved to be a vain effort to save that state to the democrats. Senator Kern labored day and night and at the close of the campaigning found himself very much impaired in health. He and Kern was married twice. His present wife is the daughter of Dr. William Cooper, a pioneer physician of Kokomo.

He never posed as a brilliant orator, but rather directed his efforts in leadership to confounding his opponents. His homely wit and genial nature endeared him to his colleagues in both parties. He maintained his deep interest in Indiana politics and took a prominent part in the presidential campaign last year. At this time a year ago he and his colleague, Senator Taggart, were stumping Indiana in what proved to be a vain effort to save that state to the democrats. Senator Kern labored day and night and at the close of the campaigning found himself very much impaired in health. He and Kern was married twice. His present wife is the daughter of Dr. William Cooper, a pioneer physician of Kokomo.

He never posed as a brilliant orator, but rather directed his efforts in leadership to confounding his opponents. His homely wit and genial nature endeared him to his colleagues in both parties. He maintained his deep interest in Indiana politics and took a prominent part in the presidential campaign last year. At this time a year ago he and his colleague, Senator Taggart, were stumping Indiana in what proved to be a vain effort to save that state to the democrats. Senator Kern labored day and night and at the close of the campaigning found himself very much impaired in health. He and Kern was married twice. His present wife is the daughter of Dr. William Cooper, a pioneer physician of Kokomo.

He never posed as a brilliant orator, but rather directed his efforts in leadership to confounding his opponents. His homely wit and genial nature endeared him to his colleagues in both parties. He maintained his deep interest in Indiana politics and took a prominent part in the presidential campaign last year. At this time a year ago he and his colleague, Senator Taggart, were stumping Indiana in what proved to be a vain effort to save that state to the democrats. Senator Kern labored day and night and at the close of the campaigning found himself very much impaired in health. He and Kern was married twice. His present wife is the daughter of Dr. William Cooper, a pioneer physician of Kokomo.

He never posed as a brilliant orator, but rather directed his efforts in leadership to confounding his opponents. His homely wit and genial nature endeared him to his colleagues in both parties. He maintained his deep interest in Indiana politics and took a prominent part in the presidential campaign last year. At this time a year ago he and his colleague, Senator Taggart, were stumping Indiana in what proved to be a vain effort to save that state to the democrats. Senator Kern labored day and night and at the close of the campaigning found himself very much impaired in health. He and Kern was married twice. His present wife is the daughter of Dr. William Cooper, a pioneer physician of Kokomo.

He never posed as a brilliant orator, but rather directed his efforts in leadership to confounding his opponents. His homely wit and genial nature endeared him to his colleagues in both parties. He maintained his deep interest in Indiana politics and took a prominent part in the presidential campaign last year. At this time a year ago he and his colleague, Senator Taggart, were stumping Indiana in what proved to be a vain effort to save that state to the democrats. Senator Kern labored day and night and at the close of the campaigning found himself very much impaired in health. He and Kern was married twice. His present wife is the daughter of Dr. William Cooper, a pioneer physician of Kokomo.

He never posed as a brilliant orator, but rather directed his efforts in leadership to confounding his opponents. His homely wit and genial nature endeared him to his colleagues in both parties. He maintained his deep interest in Indiana politics and took a prominent part in the presidential campaign last year. At this time a year ago he and his colleague, Senator Taggart, were stumping Indiana in what proved to be a vain effort to save that state to the democrats. Senator Kern labored day and night and at the close of the campaigning found himself very much impaired in health. He and Kern was married twice. His present wife is the daughter of Dr. William Cooper, a pioneer physician of Kokomo.

He never posed as a brilliant orator, but rather directed his efforts in leadership to confounding his opponents. His homely wit and genial nature endeared him to his colleagues in both parties. He maintained his deep interest in Indiana politics and took a prominent part in the presidential campaign last year. At this time a year ago he and his colleague, Senator Taggart, were stumping Indiana in what proved to be a vain effort to save that state to the democrats. Senator Kern labored day and night and at the close of the campaigning found himself very much impaired in health. He and Kern was married twice. His present wife is the daughter of Dr. William Cooper, a pioneer physician of Kokomo.

He never posed as a brilliant orator, but rather directed his efforts in leadership to confounding his opponents. His homely wit and genial nature endeared him to his colleagues in both parties. He maintained his deep interest in Indiana politics and took a prominent part in the presidential campaign last year. At this time a year ago he and his colleague, Senator Taggart, were stumping Indiana in what proved to be a vain effort to save that state to the democrats. Senator Kern labored day and night and at the close of the campaigning found himself very much impaired in health. He and Kern was married twice. His present wife is the daughter of Dr. William Cooper, a pioneer physician of Kokomo.

He never posed as a brilliant orator, but rather directed his efforts in leadership to confounding his opponents. His homely wit and genial nature endeared him to his colleagues in both parties. He maintained his deep interest in Indiana politics and took a prominent part in the presidential campaign last year. At this time a year ago he and his colleague, Senator Taggart, were stumping Indiana in what proved to be a vain effort to save that state to the democrats. Senator Kern labored day and night and at the close of the campaigning found himself very much impaired in health. He and Kern was married twice. His present wife is the daughter of Dr. William Cooper, a pioneer physician of Kokomo.

He never posed as a brilliant orator, but rather directed his efforts in leadership to confounding his opponents. His homely wit and genial nature endeared him to his colleagues in both parties. He maintained his deep interest in Indiana politics and took a prominent part in the presidential campaign last year. At this time a year ago he and his colleague, Senator Taggart, were stumping Indiana in what proved to be a vain effort to save that state to the democrats. Senator Kern labored day and night and at the close of the campaigning found himself very much impaired in health. He and Kern was married twice. His present wife is the daughter of Dr. William Cooper, a pioneer physician of Kokomo.

He never posed as a brilliant orator, but rather directed his efforts in leadership to confounding his opponents. His homely wit and genial nature endeared him to his colleagues in both parties. He maintained his deep interest in Indiana politics and took a prominent part in the presidential campaign last year. At this time a year ago he and his colleague, Senator Taggart, were stumping Indiana in what proved to be a vain effort to save that state to the democrats. Senator Kern labored day and night and at the close of the campaigning found himself very much impaired in health. He and Kern was married twice. His present wife is the daughter of Dr. William Cooper, a pioneer physician of Kokomo.

He never posed as a brilliant orator, but rather directed his efforts in leadership to confounding his opponents. His homely wit and genial nature endeared him to his colleagues in both parties. He maintained his deep interest in Indiana politics and took a prominent part in the presidential campaign last year. At this time a year ago he and his colleague, Senator Taggart, were stumping Indiana in what proved to be a vain effort to save that state to the democrats. Senator Kern labored day and night and at the close of the campaigning found himself very much impaired in health. He and Kern was married twice. His present wife is the daughter of Dr. William Cooper, a pioneer physician of Kokomo.

He never posed as a brilliant orator, but rather directed his efforts in leadership to confounding his opponents. His homely wit and genial nature endeared him to his colleagues in both parties. He maintained his deep interest in Indiana politics and took a prominent part in the presidential campaign last year. At this time a year ago he and his colleague, Senator Taggart, were stumping Indiana in what proved to be a vain effort to save that state to the democrats. Senator Kern labored day and night and at the close of the campaigning found himself very much impaired in health. He and Kern was married twice. His present wife is the daughter of Dr. William Cooper, a pioneer physician of Kokomo.

He never posed as a brilliant orator, but rather directed his efforts in leadership to confounding his opponents. His homely wit and genial nature endeared him to his colleagues in both parties. He maintained his deep interest in Indiana politics and took a prominent part in the presidential campaign last year. At this time a year ago he and his colleague, Senator Taggart, were stumping Indiana in what proved to be a vain effort to save that state to the democrats. Senator Kern labored day and night and at the close of the campaigning found himself very much impaired in health. He and Kern was married twice. His present wife is the daughter of Dr. William Cooper, a pioneer physician of Kokomo.

He never posed as a brilliant orator, but rather directed his efforts in leadership to confounding his opponents. His homely wit and genial nature endeared him to his colleagues in both parties. He maintained his deep interest in Indiana politics and took a prominent part in the presidential campaign last year. At this time a year ago he and his colleague, Senator Taggart, were stumping Indiana in what proved to be a vain effort to save that state to the democrats. Senator Kern labored day and night and at the close of the campaigning found himself very much impaired in health. He and Kern was married twice. His present wife is the daughter of Dr. William Cooper, a pioneer physician of Kokomo.

He never posed as a brilliant orator, but rather directed his efforts in leadership to confounding his opponents. His homely wit and genial nature endeared him to his colleagues in both parties. He maintained his deep interest in Indiana politics and took a prominent part in the presidential campaign last year. At this time a year ago he and his colleague, Senator Taggart, were stumping Indiana in what proved to be a vain effort to save that state to the democrats. Senator Kern labored day and night and at the close of the campaigning found himself very much impaired in health. He and Kern was married twice. His present wife is the daughter of Dr. William Cooper, a pioneer physician of Kokomo.

Two Interesting Announcements of Engagements of Well Known Service Folk.

Washingtonians Prominent in Social Life at Newport—Out-of-Town Weddings of Note.

Capt. Henry A. Wiley, U. S. N., and Mrs. Wiley announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Wiley, to Mr. Hampton Robb of Cleveland, Ohio.

The marriage of Capt. and Mrs. Wiley's son, Lieut. Henry Wood Wiley, to Miss Jean Morris Lillie, takes place today at noon at Ardmore, Pa. Miss Theodora Lillie will be her sister's maid of honor and the bridesmaids will include Miss Edith Earle, Miss Katharine Tenney, Miss Katherine Z. Ogden, Miss Roberta Wiley and Miss Elizabeth Wiley, sisters of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Frank C. Roberts.

Mr. Donald Lincoln of Cleveland will be the best man. The ushers will include Mr. William Fillebrown, Washington; Mr. Horace Wyman, Worcester, Mass.; Mr. Benjamin Bullock, 3d, Mr. Philip P. Smith, Dr. Harold Austin and Mr. Henry Austin. The wedding will be a very quiet one and a small reception will follow at Briarwood, the home of the bride's parents in Haverford. The engagement of Miss Roberta Wiley, another daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Wiley, to Mr. Philip Child of Boston, was announced in June and the wedding is expected to take place in the autumn.

Mrs. John C. H. Lee announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss

departing for Seattle.

departing for Seattle.

departing for Seattle.

departing for Seattle.

departing for Seattle.

departing for Seattle.

departing for Seattle.

departing for Seattle.

departing for Seattle.

departing for Seattle.

departing for Seattle.

departing for Seattle.

departing for Seattle.

departing for Seattle.

departing for Seattle.

departing for Seattle.

departing for Seattle.

departing for Seattle.

departing for Seattle.

departing for Seattle.

departing for Seattle.

departing for Seattle.

departing for Seattle.

departing for Seattle.

departing for Seattle.

PLAN TO EXPLAIN NEED OF THE COUNCIL SERVICE

W. J. Harahan Asks Railroad Heads to Enlist Co-Operation of Employees.

NORFOLK, Va., August 18.—Southeastern railroads are urged to enlist the co-operation of all their employees in informing the public of the necessity of curtailing service in the interest of the nation, in an open letter addressed to them today by W. J. Harahan, president of the Seaboard Air Line.

Mr. Harahan wrote the letter as chairman of the southeastern department of the special committee on national defense of the American Railway Association.

Employees Should Be Posted. "If our employees are advised by us as to what we are seeking to accomplish and the reasons for doing these things that are necessary to be done," said Mr. Harahan in his letter, "they will feel it incumbent upon themselves to explain to people who may criticize such actions. It is suggested that each railroad in some way post its men on the condition as it presents itself to the individual so that these men may be prepared to talk conversationally and explain the situation in an intelligent and convincing manner."

Method of Conservation. "Many railroads are taking off passenger trains which are really paying trains, for the purpose of conserving fuel, men, etc., and more of these trains will be taken off in time to come. If instead of three passenger trains a day serving a community it shall become necessary to have only one, the individual who has to wait for a few hours' delay when the very life of the nation is at stake."

Method of Conservation.

Method of Conservation.

Method of Conservation.

Method of Conservation.

Method of Conservation.

Method of Conservation.

Method of Conservation.

Method of Conservation.

Method of Conservation.

Method of Conservation.

Method of Conservation.

Method of Conservation.

Method of Conservation.

Method of Conservation.

Method of Conservation.

Method of Conservation.

Method of Conservation.

Method of Conservation.

Method of Conservation.

Method of Conservation.

Method of Conservation.

Method of Conservation.

Method of Conservation.

Method of Conservation.

Method of Conservation.

SEAMENWARE PLANNING TO PUNISH GERMANS

Head of British Union in Addressing Allied Representatives, Suggests Ways to Hit Teutons.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, August 18.—"To consider the crimes committed by Germany and seamen of German U-boats," was the official description of the purpose of the assemblage here of representatives of seamen's organizations of several allied and neutral countries. France, Italy, the United States, Canada, Australia, Holland, Belgium and the Scandinavian countries were represented by masters, mates, engineers, sailors, cooks and stewards.

Mr. Wilson said: "It is not worth while calling on the government to protect us, but the people of the world must do something for themselves. The war will not last forever. The German U-boats will be destroyed. We must come to the seamen of the world. Then there will be a great many accounts to settle."

Mr. Wilson proposed that the seamen of the world should form a committee to try commanders and crews who have murdered innocent seamen.

Knitters for Red Cross.

Knitters for Red Cross.

Knitters for Red Cross.

Knitters for Red Cross.

Knitters for Red Cross.

Knitters for Red Cross.

Knitters for Red Cross.

Knitters for Red Cross.

Knitters for Red Cross.

Knitters for Red Cross.

Knitters for Red Cross.

Knitters for Red Cross.

Knitters for Red Cross.

Knitters for Red Cross.

Knitters for Red Cross.

Knitters for Red Cross.

Knitters for Red Cross.

Knitters for Red Cross.

Knitters for Red Cross.

Knitters for Red Cross.

Knitters for Red Cross.

Knitters for Red Cross.

Knitters for Red Cross.

Knitters for Red Cross.

</